MAYOR KNOTTS EXPLAINS

HE IS NOT ATTACKING BACHELOR AND OLD MAID SOCIETIES.

Move of Hammond Creditors at Green. castle-Madison County's Indebtedness-General Indiana News.

Special to the Indianapolis Journal. MUNCIE, Ind. Aug. 19 .- Mayor Knotts, of Hammond, was in Muncle to-day on legal business. When questioned concerning his famous letter to the manufacturers of Hammond, requesting them to employ no one but married men, he said that many papers had taken the wrong view entirely of his proposition. He said he did not mean the letter as a sensational attack on bachelorism but as a serious expression of his views on a great economic question.

"My idea," said the mayor, "is that the wage earners of Hammond shall have some economic responsibility besides their wages. They should have families, should own property, which condition make peace and contentment in any city. I do not mean that every employe should be a married man but, if he is any good at all, he should soon become a property owner. That is the first step toward his becoming a husband and father. When a man has these responsibilities he will become a good, peace-loving, fearless citizen, who will foster the best interests of his city and shun the little differences which have in many cases aroused serious and destructive strikes. "In the great railroad riots which we had at Hammond in 1894," continued the mayor, 'the men who blustered and did the bullying were the ones who had no responsibil ity. When the soldiers came these men fled from the city. Had they been married, had they had homes and property in Hammond, had they felt that they were fighting for home, liberty and against oppression, they would have met the soldiers with the courage of men who knew they were right. But this would not have been necessary, for the married man or the property holder would have settled the trouble to the benefit of both the striker and the employer without the shedding of blood. I am not lightly attacking bachelors an old maid societies as the papers would have you believe," said the mayor in concluding his talk to the Journal representative, "but this is a serious question with me. I am betterment of my city." MADISON COUNTY'S DEBTS.

Commissioners Are Getting Ready to Have a Bond-Fire.

Special to the Indianapolis Journal. ANDERSON, Ind., Aug. 19.-The board of commissioners of Madison County has completed the ordinance of appropriations for the coming year. The commissioners ask for $200,000 and this amount does not provide for the purchase of voting machines nor for any part of the construction of a new jail. The purchase of voting machines has been agitated here and is in general favor among the people. The County Council will be asked to make an additional appropriation for this feature, although the commissioners did not feel like taking the initiative in the matter. The commissioners also made arrangements for the payment of the last of the county bonded indebtedness, There remained but $17,000 in bonds outstanding and for the liquidation of that claim the money is waiting in the treasury. The commissioners will have a bond fire on the day the last bond is taken up. Madison County will be absolutely free from debt and have

Asking that Claims of Dead Wife's Heirs Be Disallowed.

Special to the Indianapolis Journal. GREENCASTLE, Ind., Aug. 19.-The creditors of Thomas C. Hammond, the banker of this city, who recently made an assignment of his personal property after fifty years in the First National Bank of Gmencastle, are seeking to have Referee in Bankruptcy Pugh disallow the claims of the heirs of the late Caroline S. Hammond, who was the wife of Thomas C. Hammond, for $40,000, representing, with interest, a note which was made by Mr. Hammond to his wife in 1873, for $17,000 in payment of indebtedness of Thomas C. Hammond to his wife. It is claimed by the creditors that the note was illegal because the estate was insolvent at the time it was made. The allowing of the claim pro rata from the assigned property would materially reduce the proportion received by the credit- of the State. ors outside of the Hammond family. Special to the Indianapolis Journal. KOKOMO, Ind., Aug. 19.-Attorney John son, representing the Indiana Natural Gas Company, in conference with the council, submitted an ultimatum on the fuel gas question to-night that is unpleasant to Kokomo patrons. The company demands the meter system at 25 cents per thousand, the company to furnish the meters free to patrons. One provision is that patrons must pay $2 a month for each stove whether 8.000 feet is burned or not and 25 cents for each additional 1,000 feet. The company declares that if these terms are not accepted it will pull out of Kokome and send all the gas to Chicago. The city seems at the mercy of the corporation and probably will swallow the prescribed dose.

The strikers have asked the Central Trades Council to boycott the telephone company by a referendum vote. MADE TOO MUCH RACKET.

Salvation Army Will Have to Leave Corner of Meridian and Washington Complaints from downtown firms caused the police to interfere with the meeetings of the Salvation Army, which has been holding forth nightly at the corner of Washington and Medidian streets for years. An effort will be made by the organization to obtain legal advice on the matter. It is not the intention of the army to antagonize police or public. The band does not want to change its location on account of the demoralizing effect on collections. Some time ago a change was made to the south side of Washington street and the collections fell off rapidly with the result that the band was in debt in a short while. A Fishworm Farm.

Logansport (Ind.) Pharos. One of the most remarkable farms in Wells county is one in the back yard at the Will Smith home. It is only about two feet square and the only product of the farm is fishworms. Will and Frank have been digging up worms from all parts of the country and transplanting them in a box ready for shipment to Oden, where Will and family will go next week. While the were in the box they were fed on dishwater and oat meal and grew as fat and lusty as any fisherman could want. Will says they showed remarkable signs of intelligence and when they saw him coming out to feed them would all stand up on their tails and wag their heads at him. newed yesterday afternoon, The city cabmen appointed a committee which yesterday called on Deputy City Prosecutor Gaylord Hawkins at the police station and explained that they were determined to make another fight against the Bird Company and the Union Rallway Company and would request warrants for the arrest of all the hackmen in the employ of the Bird company who are found soliciting business within or near the Union Station. Some time ago the hackmen of the city organized and fought the Bird Transfer Company and the Indianapolis Union Railway through all the courts, but lost their case in a court of last resort. The cabmen are not allowed, according to the city ordinances, to solicit business inside of the Union Station, but by agreement with the railroads the Frank Bird Company has placed uniformed men within the station and have an office in the building. The city hackmen claim that they are wronged by not being allowed to solicit business under the same circumstances as the Bird company and say that they are determined to fight the case all over again if neces-

HOW TO REDEEM A COUNTY. Good Advice That Fits Republicans in Every Democratic Stronghold. Plymouth (Ind) Tribune. Marshall county can be redeemed and made a reliable Republican county. The essential point is to knock out those factionists who lead nothing except their own greedy combinations to get office. There are certainly Republicans in this county who can battle ably for the principles of the party and the progress of good government. That is the way to carry Marshall county. Let men be nominated who are earnest, broad-gauge, self-respecting Republican, who will go into the canvass to redeem the county, not to anticipate defeat and lay their nets as office hucksters after it comes. The main body of Republicans should strike at the federal patronage factionists wherever they show themselves. The Republicans of this county believe in their party thoroughly and will fight for it to the uttermost, but they have suffered deeply from the federal patronage leadership course, and their voice now, as regards the pap-sucking parasites, is to give the people a chance and make a fight for Re-publican principles, for honesty and fair conventions, in State, district and county. and then stand solidly for the success of Marshall courty Republican candidates without regard to federal patronage.
